Antioch Clothing Drive Will Open Monday, April 23

Collections Will be Made at Village Hall and Grade School

The schools and municipal government of Antioch are co-operating to sponsor a used clothing drive to be held here next week for the benefit of the needy in Europe.

A room in Antioch Grade school has been set aside for the storage of this clothing, which should be in good condition and of a practical nature. Flimsy garments, clothing so badly worn as to have little use left in it, or extremely high heeled slippers and sandals should not be turned in, it is emphasized.

From Monday through Friday, April 23-27, Village Marshal Fred Peterson will be at the village hall to receive calls from persons who have clothing to donate but no means of getting it to the local collection centers.

Arrangements will be made to have the village truck pick up this clothing. The telephone number at the village hall is Antioch 257.

Ethel Alpfenfels Discusses Race Question in Talk

Audience of 100 Attends Lecture Sunday at High School

The race question as viewed in the light of scientific and anthropological study was discussed by Ethel Alpfenfels of Chicago university before an audience of 100 Sunday afternoon in the High School auditorium.

The program was sponsored by the Antioch Woman's club, with the co-operation of the Grade and High School Parent Teacher associations, the Lions' club, American Legion post and auxiliary and the Business and Professional Women's club.

A group of songs by Margot McNamer Johnson, Batavia, Ill., a former resident of Antioch, was greatly enjoyed.

Soybean Inoculation Is Being Urged This Year

Lake County farmers were urged today by Ray T. Nicholas, Lake county farm advisor, to make sure that all soybean seed planted this spring is properly inoculated, especially on land that has not repeatedly grown the crop.

The largest possible production of soybeans is vitally important with the worst shortage of fats and oils impending since the start of the war, according to Nicholas. Supplies of butter, lard and other shortening are expected to shrink rapidly this summer. The 1945 soybean acreage will remain about the same as 1944, yet soybean oil must make up a large part of the shortage.

"Inoculation is a cheap insurance of top soybean production," said Nicholas. Experiment station tests indicate yields on the average will be increased by 10 to 15 percent, some times much more.

"Inoculation also plays an important part in maintaining soil nitrogen, an important consideration when the fertility of many soils is under heavy drain due to the over cropping demand by the war. It is good business and it is patriotic for every farmer to produce every possible pound of fats for this last big push.

"Inoculation by either commercial cultures or by the use of properly inoculated soil can be effective, but commercial inoculants require much less labor, an important point this year. To be sure of obtaining them, inoculants should be ordered early."

Farming Called World's Most Risky Occupation

Farming was the world's most dangerous occupation in 1944, and the record for 1945 may be even worse, Farm Advisor Ray T. Nicholas declared this week.

"Older men, more women, more youngsters and more green hands will be used this year than ever before, and longer hours and older machinery will multiply the opportunity for accidents," he said. "Machinery is probably the farm's danger spot No. 1."

The farm advisor recommended that a thorough check of machinery be made before field work starts. Defective hitches, seats, clutches, wheels, brakes, steering and unguarded revolving parts, such as gears, chains and shafts, deserve special attention. He also emphasized that poorly conditioned machinery is irritating and fatiguing to the operator and that fatigue usually increases accidents.

The accident toll on the nation's farms and ranches for last year was reported at 20,000 dead and 2,000,000 injured, with an estimated money loss of a billion dollars.

Seek to Increase Ill. State Police Force

A bill to increase the Illinois state police force from its present strength of 350 men to 500 has been introduced in the state senate. Only honorably discharged veterans of the present war would be eligible for the additional appointments proposed in the bill. The measure was drafted upon the recommendation of Governor Dwight H. Green.

Declaring that conditions now are "radically different" from those of 1933, when the 350 limit was placed on the police force, Governor Green pointed out that Illinois now has about 2,500 more miles of state roads, and that the end of the war is certain to bring a heavy increase in highway traffic. He added that because of administrative and technical duties and special details, and the fact that the force is divided into three eight-hour shifts, only about 115 police are now available for patrol duty at any one time, or little more than an average of one man per county.

Don't Blame It All on the General

Quite an uproar has been caused by a recent magazine article (Cosmopolitan, for March) calling attention to conditions in various hospitals under the charge of the Veterans' Administration.

The air is still full of accusations and denials, with a general tendency to heap all the blame on the head of the Administration, General Hines, and on the heads of the various hospitals. Perhaps that is where it comes to rest technically, but we've just been wondering if a little of it doesn't also belong to you, and to us, and to all the rest of the citizens of the country, as the authority BACK of General Hines and his staff?

Maybe we're wrong, but it seems to us that our wounded and ill war veterans are entitled to the best care that we can possibly give them.

In order that they may be assured of such care, it is our simple belief that it is necessary for every worker in the veterans' hospitals, not only the "big shots" but the little ones, too—the orderlies, kitchen staff—in fact just about everybody on the place—to do their part in keeping things going right for the patients. This applies to the courtesy and consideration which they are entitled to receive, as well as to the medical services or other care which they may require.

It has been said, and it is no doubt true, that the veterans' hospitals are overcrowded. A building program is being inaugurated to provide additional hospital space in various parts of the country, but will probably not bring relief immediately. It may perhaps be relieved by the taking over of additional buildings already constructed or by utilizing Army and Navy buildings that may be vacated from time to time. Nevertheless, the problem of space will probably be a serious one and one that will require careful management on the part of the Veterans' Administration if hospital facilities are to be available to all who require them.

It has also been said that the hospitals are understaffed and inadequately staffed. While the problem of medical personnel is a serious one, perhaps something could be done here along the line of the Army and Navy programs for instructing medical corpsmen and pharmacists' mates. And here is where some of the rest of us might be able to help out, much in the same way that the nurses' aides have been called in to help in the civilian hospitals, or perhaps on a full time basis.

A group of women from Round Lake Beach has already made inquiry as to whether arrangements could be made for them to devote at least one day a week to working at Downey hospital.

Occupational therapy and recreational programs for the veterans are already receiving the attention of a number of organizations.

The North Lake County chapter of the American Red Cross is issuing a call for a new group of volunteers for the Grey Ladies at the present time to take a course in occupational therapy and recreational therapy, which in turn will be taught to patients in the wards. Registrations will be held in the chapter headquarters in Waukegan April 18, 19 and 20, from 7 to 8:30 p. m., under the charge of Mrs. Ruth Harmon.

The American Legion and its auxiliary have for many years made it their custom to hold parties and special entertainments for the men in the veterans' hospitals. That such evidences of thoughtfulness on the part of their fellow citizens are a comfort to the men is evidenced by a letter which the Antioch auxiliary received from one of the patients at Downey and which was printed in the Antioch News issue of March 14.

Other patriotic and civic groups have also at various times made it a point to sponsor plans or projects to aid the hospitalized ex-service men directly or indirectly.

An attitude of increased helpfulness and practical cooperation on the part of the general public will perhaps go further than a vast deal of criticism in making sure that the veterans receive the consideration and the aid they have earned.

A WORKABLE HAY DRIER

Build it now... feed richer, greener hay next winter!

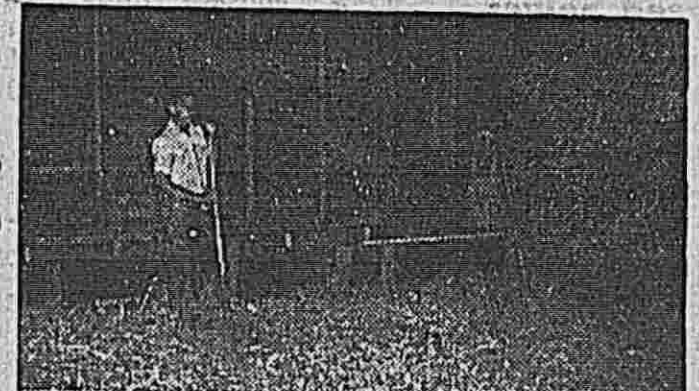

Chopped Hay, as well as loose hay, can be barn-cured by the hay drier. This good-looking hay represents part of three cuttings of alfalfa that were blown in the Wright brothers' mow, near Manteno.

Hay Drier Duct Construction on the J. P. Bonfield farm near Geneva shows main air tunnel and lateral ducts over which hay is distributed. Tunnel and ducts are fed by a 36" propeller-type fan.

35 Tons of Loose Alfalfa were cured in the mow last year on the G. Y. Taylor farm, Huntley. As the partially-cured hay lay in the mow, drying air was forced through it by a 42" fan.

Protein and Carotene are saved by barn curing since leaves are not exposed to rain or lost through shattering. J. M. Clifton of Kankakee mow-cured this soybean crop.

Results from experiments on Northern Illinois farms prove that this new plan for barn curing of hay produces green, leafy hay of high protein content...cuts haying losses due to bad weather

Through research and experimentation, it has become a fact that mow or barn curing of hay with forced ventilation has developed into one of the greatest improvements in agricultural processes.

Local Farm Advisors and electric company Farm Representatives have made a thorough study of the process and have worked side by side with farmers who have pioneered in the barn curing of hay, and now the system is within the reach of every farmer who desires to put more Grade 1 hay in his barn, who wishes to do something about the haying losses that occur even under the best of haying conditions.

What it is... what it does

The hay drier consists of wooden ducts built on the mow floor through which an even distribution of air is fan-forced into and upward through the partially field-cured hay. By being able to safely put hay in the mow in a semi-green condition, protein-rich leaves remain on the stems and are not lost through handling processes. Moreover, damage from dew, rain, and excessive sun bleaching is cut to a minimum or completely eliminated. Both loose and chopped hay can be cured by the hay drier.

A hay drier for your farm?

Enthusiasm for hay driers is reflected by the number of farmers requesting installation plans and information. Since plans must be drawn according to individual barns (no two installations are identical), anyone interested in the use of a hay drier should contact his electric company's Farm Representative.

Now is the time to get the complete picture of hay drying, to work on the design for your barn, to place the order for the materials. Do it now and be ready to process next summer's first cutting by this proven drying system. Your local electric company's Farm Representative will be glad to give you full facts and figures. No obligation whatsoever.

Electricity is available to more than 86% of all the farms in the area served by the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois

Library News

Many new books were received at the Antioch Township library last week. Booth Tarkington's "Image of Josephine" is outstanding among them. Josephine is one of Mr. Tarkington's strongest characters. Wealthy, beautiful and headstrong, she imposes her will on those about her, until she meets Lt. Bailey Fount. The resultant clash of wills is described with subtle humor.

"The Silver Answer" is by Rhoda Hoff, a writer new to this library. It is a poignant love story, which will sustain and inspire those of us who are separated from loved ones.

"Yeoman's Hospital" is the title and also the scene of Helen Ashton's latest novel. In its 24 hours, the reader learns much of the drama of hospital life behind the scenes.

The struggle for power in Queen Elizabeth's youth, overshadowed by her voracious father Henry VIII, is told in the exciting book, "Young Bess" by Margaret Irwin.

"Between Heaven and Earth" by Franz Werfel is difficult to describe. It is a confession of faith, a spring of information, thoughts and emotions. Like "The Song of Bernadette," it is a book both inspiring and significant.

The Antioch Township library is proudly displaying a new 24-volume set of the Encyclopedia Britannica in the reference section. Edited in 1945, the Britannica is published with the editorial advice and consultation of the faculties of the University of Chicago. Along with the standard reference material, this set also contains a complete atlas of the world.

"At His Side," a book dedicated to the memory of Mrs. Joseph Horton, was received last week. In "At His Side," George Korson has written one of the most human books of the day. It tells the intimate overseas story of the American Red Cross and its work with the Armed Forces.

New fiction recently received includes "Image of Josephine" by Booth Tarkington; "The Silver Answer" by Rhoda Hoff; "Yeoman's Hospital" by Helen Ashton; and an historical novel, "Young Bess" by Margaret Irwin.

Mrs. Anne Heath was in charge of a luncheon served to members of Lakeside Rebekah Lodge No. 82 following a business meeting last evening in the Odd Fellows hall. Fourteen were present.

Busted Illusion: Because I accidentally happened to encounter J. Miller Frazier at the Biltmore, another illusion has been busted completely. Having heard so much of it over the air waves, I had become convinced that all tobacco sales were accompanied by long drawn chants of gibberish by the various auctioneers. "Colonel" Frazier, long credit manager of the old Waldorf-Astoria, later managing director of the Bellevue-Stratford in Philadelphia and now a resident of Lexington, Ky., assured me that such an impression was all wrong—at least, so far as his part of the Blue Grass state is concerned. According to "Colonel" Frazier, sales of tobacco are conducted nowadays so that there is no noise, or extended gibberish. On the contrary, he averred, in the big warehouses down his way, the sales are carried on swiftly, efficiently—and in good English.

How It's Done: "The other day I drove out from Lexington to a warehouse owned by a friend," continued "Colonel" Frazier, "which surely must be one of the biggest anywhere—I assure you, it has more than six acres of floor space under one roof. The day of my visit, something like 2,500,000 pounds of tobacco were being sold and that's considerable tobacco anywhere. Naturally, having done my share of cussing at radio 'tobacco' auctioneers, I was surprised at what I saw and heard. All the tobacco had been graded by government officials and was in large hampers, each numbered and marked with a ceiling price. The buyers stood about and the salesman without any 'eeny, meeny, miny, mo' stuff, simply disposed of the tobacco in this way, '45 goes to you, 46 to you, 47 to you,' identifying each purchaser with a nod, until the whole quantity offered for sale had been allocated."

Ears of the Law: On a Manhattan-bound ferry boat after a long, hard day transporting patients to and from Halloran hospital on Staten Island, a young Women's Volunteer services ambulance driver remarked to a girl companion she was so all in that only a smoke would revive her. She had expected to pick up a pack of cigarettes at the hospital PX when she had concluded her tour of duty, she continued, but that was as bare as Mother Hubbard's well known cupboard. "The only thing left for me to do is to go to the black market," she averred. With that, a man who had been standing quietly in the background stepped forward and asked her what she knew about a black market in cigarettes. The girl replied quickly that she knew nothing at all—but she wished she did. With that, the man turned back his coat lapel and disclosed a badge showing he was an OPA inspector. Also, he supplied the girl in uniform with a cigaret.

Inspiration: At the party at the Hotel Bryant in his honor given just after he had replaced Frank Sinatra on the "Hit Parade" program, Tess Buxton, of Tune In magazine, informed Lawrence Tibbett that one of his most ardent fans was her sister, Mrs. Lucile Marsh. Miss Buxton added she could be with Sinatra every day in the week and her sister would not be interested at all but that she would have to give her every detail in regard to her meeting with Tibbett. Then she told of the canary that was about to be destroyed because it refused to sing. "My sister felt so sorry for it, she took it home," Miss Buxton continued. "Its name was Ecstasy. She changed it to Tibbett—and until the day Tib died, he fairly sang his heart out." And Lawrence Tibbett beamed.

Practical: Charlotte Manson, radio actress, keeps the boys overseas in touch with events at home in a very simple manner. To friends who were in show business before entering the service, she sends the various Broadway columns. To those interested in books, she mails the latest book reviews and to others concerned with finance, politics, sports etc., she sends their favorite columns. "All you need is a pair of scissors, an envelope and a stamp and you can make a lot of boys happy," she said. "And besides, you never have to worry about what to write."

End Piece: At a mid-town foodery, Carl Ravazza, La Martinique baritone, spied Carole Landis enter and sit in a corner nook, obscured from view. Unable to attract her attention, Carl scribbled a note and asked a passing waitress to deliver it—tipping her a quarter for the favor. At the end of her meal, La Landis arrived note in hand. "I got your message, Carl," she declared, "but what's the 25 cents for?"

English Girl to Learn

Secrets of U. S. Pancakes

HAGERSTOWN, MD. — The American "invasion" of England now shows promise of altering the traditional English diet.

Pfc. Robert Rider of Hagerstown wrote his mother, Mrs. Earl Rider, for a sack of pancake flour and her recipe for making those luscious hotcakes.

"I want to train my English girl in the art of pancake making," he said.

Pvt. Ray Laseo is doing a little traveling, he writes from the European theater of action—

"How is everybody in good old Antioch? I thought it was about time I wrote to you, just to let you know that I have been getting the Antioch News quite regularly. I have been traveling plenty since we landed here. Mostly on foot. But the News seems to keep a following me. I am writing this letter in my fox hole today. We sure have been having wonderful weather here. The civilians are sowing their grain now, and I was surprised to see what they use for power. Nothing but two milk cows. I would say they are quite old-fashioned from the modern things we use in the States.

"I would settle for just a plain little pile of rocks as long as it was in Antioch. I have been here in Germany for a few weeks now. We are with Patton's Third Army at last. Well, it is getting near chow time, I will close for today."

Pvt. Leonard Roblin arrived home Sunday evening from Scott field, Belleville, Ill., to spend Monday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Roblin.

Pvt. Irving Weber, Jefferson barracks, Mo., arrived home last Wednesday to spend a 16-day furlough with his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Weber, and other relatives.

According to recent government reports, the top shelf of the kitchen is not the most ideal place to keep precious jams, jellies and preserves, even though it is convenient. To prevent spoilage, these products are best kept in a cool, dark, dry place.

If your windshield wiper motor fails to operate in a rainstorm, stop at any drug store and secure a small amount of glycerin. This mixed with water and applied to glass will keep it clear for an hour or more. Chewing tobacco applied in the same manner will have an equal effect. Thus you will be able to drive home safely.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"When you think of the sacrifices our fighting men are making in this war, it's hard to figure out how we'll ever repay them, isn't it, Judge?"

"Yes, it really is, Tom. There are only certain things we can do. Such as... write them cheerful letters often. Send them favorite gifts from time to time. Work harder than ever to provide them with everything they need to finish their job quickly. Buy more and more War Bonds... especially during the current drive... to pay for the ammunition and fighting equipment they must have."

"All that still seems kind of small compared with what they're doing for us, Judge."

"True, but it's about all we older folks back home can do, Tom. Except one more thing. And that is to be sure our fighting men come home to the same kind of country they left behind. The kind of country their letters tell us they want. Nothing changed that they don't want changed while they're away and unable to express their wishes."

Re-forestation Among Conservation Problems

By Alan Thain

The history of forestry started in Europe many years ago. The people there recognized the value of the forests in soil protection, recreation, wildlife propagation, maintenance of water supply and for lumber; and so made a plan whereby they could have a continuous supply of trees.

Many years later the United States saw their forest lands dwindle and began to work on forest restoration and propagation.

In Illinois there are three state forests now, which are taken care of by the Department of Conservation, Division of Forestry. One of the jobs of the Division is reforestation. Besides raising enough seedlings for the state forests this division raises trees to be sold to Illinois land owners for making new forests or renewing old ones. The trees are sold at a very moderate price ($5.00 per 1000) with the following requirements:

1. Trees are to be planted for establishing a new forest, or improvement of a forest already existing, and are not to be used for ornamental or landscaping purposes.

2. Trees may be sold as Christmas trees, posts, logs or other products, but they must not be moved or resold with roots attached.

3. The planted area will be protected from fire, trespass, and grazing by domestic livestock.

4. For the purpose of inspecting the planted area, the State Department of Conservation, Division of Forestry, will be given unrestricted access to the property on which these trees are planted.

Anyone who has land which will grow nothing else or that is eroding away can use it in at least one way, by foresting it. Then in future generations it will be useful in producing lumber and wildlife; maintaining a steady water supply; preventing soil erosion; and providing recreation.

Buy Bonds

This month thousands of Americans will receive millions of Extra dollars

In March, 1935, thousands of Americans invested in the new U. S. "Baby Bonds."

These Bonds later became the United States War Bonds you buy today.

In March, 1945, this month, these thousands of Americans will receive a total of over $36,000,000... the full maturity value of those Bonds.

People of foresight, these thousands of Americans. People who can recognize the best bargain in the world, too... one which pays back $4 for every $3 they invested in these Bonds.

But above all, people with great common sense, who realized that in order to reap the fullest harvest from their investment, they must wait until their Bonds matured before cashing them in.

They realized that to cash them in before their time was like throwing money away—money that was coming to them if they held on to their investment.

That's something for you to think about whenever you are sorely tempted to cash in one of your Bonds before maturity date. You reduce the size of that fat nest egg which will play a big part in your future.

So, when you buy your Bonds, stick 'em away in a safe place... and forget about 'em until their time has come. It pays off in the long run!
